"Our Thing Is DRUM"

History and Legacy of the League of Revolutionary Black Workers

Film Screening and Discussion with
René Lichtman and Darnell Stephen Summers
Sunday, February 10, 2019
7 pm - 9 pm
Pöge-Haus, Hedwigstraße 20, 04315 Leipzig

In 1969, a group of young filmmakers from New York traveled to Detroit to document the activities of the League of Revolutionary Black Workers. In Finally Got the News (USA, 1970, 55 min), activists of the League speak about the working conditions and racism in Detroit’s auto plants and their efforts to build an autonomous organization of Black workers, fusing the ideals of the Black Power movement and revolutionary labor activism.

Join us for a screening of Finally Got the News (OMU) and a discussion of the history and legacy of the League of Revolutionary Black Workers with René Lichtman and Darnell Stephens Summers.

René Lichtman is the co-director of Finally Got the News. Darnell Stephens Summers has worked with activists of the League in the early 1970s.

The event is free and open to the public.
